

dream rooms for children

imaginative spaces to sleep, study, and play

susanna salk

RIZZOLI
NEW YORK

New York Paris London Milan

“This room was designed with both the newborn and new parents in mind,” says San Francisco-based designer Dina Bandman, who drew inspiration from her travels to Italy’s Amalfi coast with its prolific lemon trees. “I wanted to create a gender-neutral nursery and when a green and yellow color palette came to mind, I collaborated with de Gournay to create a new sequin-embellished Lemon Grove wallpaper entirely for this room.” Bandman also fashioned the exquisite four poster Lucite crib to enhance, rather than compete, with the room’s fresh and fanciful design. “My design intention is for baby to nestle in style and for parents to feel uplifted and energized in this special nursery.”

DINA BANDMAN INTERIORS